Our Heathfield Recipe Book is in need of more content!

As you know, we are in the process of creating a Heathfield Recipe book, with recipes from all around the world! We have made a great start but would like even more exciting dishes to add to it! Your recipe will be published in the book and have an opportunity to feature in the 'Tasting' session! There are so many different cultures to celebrate within our school and we'd love them to be shared with everyone.

Activities

- English - Write out your recipe for your dish. Look at a recipe book or at recipes online to help you. It could include adverbial openers of time, imperative verbs and embedded clauses. See below for an example,

After that, being very careful not to cut your fingers, cut the carrots with a sharp knife.

- D&T/Maths - Make your dish! Use all the maths and DT skills you have learnt at school. Can you identify them and write a short paragraph to evaluate how it went at the end?

- Computing - You could film clips of yourself following your recipe as if it is a tutorial for somebody to follow, this could turn into an explanation about how you have made your dish. Remember, an explanation is different from instructions as it describes the process, not telling someone else what to do.

- Art/Computing - Make your recipe look appealing, add some designs & sketches or you could use a computer to type your recipe and instructions and add some images. You could even create a logo or packaging for your food.
